My mama, Barbara Campos, died on Sunday in the home she and Richard created together. She loved fiercely, and so many benefitted from being loved by her.

Elijah played and sang her favorite songs (Eagles, Rolling Stones, Fleetwood Mac 🎸) to her for two hours that morning. After the priest administered the last rites, family & friends encircled her and we laid our hands on her, filling her with our love. That afternoon, Julia was reading "Gone with the Wind" to her when Mama's breathing slowed, then stopped. She has joined our ancestors.

We will host a memorial party on February 14th at my parents' house in Camarillo, CA. Details to follow.

More reflections to come.
